PROMINENT JAPANESE LADY FEARED VIOLENCE

The reports of the anti-Japanese sentiment of San Francisco, which had reached Washington in such number and been reported and discussed about the Japanese Legation and the homes of the attaches, were all remembered by Mrs. Mlyaoka, wife of the counsel on the staff of Minister Aoki, when the order came from Tokio recalling her husband and it was necessary for them to stop over in San Francisco until the sailing of the Siberia. Great was her relief, therefore, when she found that she was not only not harmed in that city during her short stay there but was treated on all sides with the greatest courtesy. Yesterday, on board the S. S.
